

Workshop: Archaeology in Aberdeenshire

Mon 27th November 2017

0930-16:00

Mintlaw Discovery Centre

Free to attend

This free one-day workshop is aimed at those working – paid staff or volunteers – in the heritage sector in Aberdeenshire

The basic ideas behind archaeological research and curation will be introduced, with a focus on the archaeology and heritage of Aberdeenshire. There will be talks and training by specialists in local archaeology and museums as well as discussion and object handling.

The workshop is being held in partnership with Aberdeenshire Council Museums Service.

Topics covered might include: obtaining archaeological assemblages + artefacts, recording procedures, what collections are for, storing collections, what can be learnt from assemblages, how to interpret + display archaeological collections, how social history collections can assist archaeological research

When you register you will be asked to provide some information to help us tailor the training

More about the ScARF Skills Workshop series:

Throughout 2017 and 2018, the Scottish Archaeological Research Framework (ScARF) will be hosting a series of workshops for those working in archaeology and museums with the aim of encouraging collaboration and building on existing skills within the sector.
